Areas of Training & Expertise

"I enjoy sharing knowledge not with the intention of teaching..."

I believe every participant in my programs has their own unique strengths. I'm confident that I, too, will gain new knowledge from them.

Some participants call me 'sifu,' others refer to me as 'coach' or 'teacher'—but regardless of the title, what matters most to me is the methodology and delivery technique, as these are key to ensuring effectiveness."

Among the courses and seminars conducted by him include:

- Business/Organizational Management Digital Marketing & Content Creation
- Marketing
- Product Development and Quality Control
- Strategic Business Planning
- Public Speaking
- Team Building
- and others

Since 2008, more than a thousand participants have attended his programs.

Outdoor program

Team Building is one of the most favored programs.

“In whatever field we are involved in - whether you’re employed or running a business - we must find joy in what we do. This helps distract us from feeling tired or exhausted and can significantly reduce stress.

That’s how I am... I love creating enjoyment in every task I undertake. I’m actively involved in human capital development programs, including Team Building. To me, Team Building is an activity that truly tests both our physical and mental abilities, while also requiring us to complete tasks collaboratively. It helps strengthen the bond between colleagues in achieving a common objective.

The games in Team Building are simulated activities that reflect how workplace tasks are accomplished.”
